

Insects Rise to Eminence?

2024

Thomas A. Burns PhD.

Klamath Falls, Oregon

America projects itself as the flagship of modern complex societal development: advanced in education, wealth, standard of living, scientific knowledge, access to opportunity, economic achievement, democratic political foundation, individual rights and equality, legal fairness, unity in diversity, etc.

How can this claim of superiority be even remotely accurate if half of the adult American public can be captured by Donald Trump: a transparent narcissist, twice impeached president, four times criminally indicted defendant, 34 times convicted felon, politically ignorant game show host, at least four times bankrupt CEO, serial misogynist, election denying seditious, perpetual liar? Fortunately, Trump has been strategically inept, but he is now being surrounded by more competent sycophants devoted to the extreme right wing policy agenda set forth in the Heritage Foundation's Project 2025 comprehensive set of recommendations for Trump's second term as President.

This is an ADVANCED society?

In the name of commercial greed and fear mongering conspiracy theory, uncontrolled social media [plus Fox News] has promoted this Trumpist situation, but in 2024 to see the Republican Party consumed to the point of dancing unconditionally around the Trump fascist fantasy Maypole is beyond astonishing.....and disappointing. It is tragic.

The Age of Reptiles, the Age of Mammals. If this is the best we humans can do at the Top of our furry Mammal heap, maybe it's time to give Insects their opportunity to ascend?

To Bee or Not to Bee?